NEW ENGLAND'S ARCHITECTURAL HISTORY WILL BE TOPIC OF JANUARY LECTURE

New England's architectural history will be the topic of a lecture by local preservation professional Andrea M. Gilmore on Thursday, January 20, 2011 at 7:30 pm at the Dedham Historical Society. Gilmore is Director, Architectural Conservation at Building Conservation Associates in Dedham.

The historic buildings of New England hold a treasure trove of information about the design, finishes, and furnishings of the region's rich architectural heritage. Gilmore's lecture will focus on four historic buildings: the Old Ship Meeting House in Hingham MA, the Abyssinian Meeting House in Portland ME, the Dreamland Theatre in Nantucket MA, and the First Church in Dedham MA.

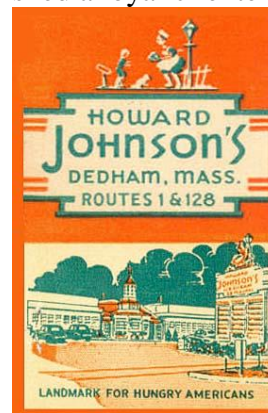

Gilmore, a Dedham resident, is a director of the Dedham Historical Society. In a career that has included working for the National Park Service, Historic New England, as well as Building Conservation Associates, Gilmore has had the opportunity to document many significant features of historic buildings throughout the region.

MARCH 24th LECTURE FEATURES "HOWARD JOHNSON: 28 FLAVORS"

In a lively illustrated slide lecture, Anthony Sammarco, noted historian and author, outlines Howard Johnson's determination and grit in creating the roadside restaurant that every American remembers with fondness.

Howard Johnson created an empire of orange roofed restaurants across the country. A well respected entrepreneur, his logo "Simple Simon and the Pieman" is fondly remembered and he is credited with being the "Father of the Franchise Industry." Born in Quincy, Johnson began his empire on Beale Street selling newspapers, cigars and ice cream, which by the 1930's would include 28 flavors. Eventually, he offered Ipswich clams, roast turkey, grilled frankfurters and other old time favorites that established a loyal clientele.

HOLIDAY TOY EXHIBIT DRAWS VISITORS

Over 50 visitors enjoyed the special exhibit "Toys for the Holidays" during the Dedham Square Holiday Stroll on December 3rd. Toys include "Donder", a circa 1825 stuffed horse, a 1910 miniature merry-go-round (see below), and dolls and doll furniture on loan from the Fairbanks House and Fairbanks Family in America. The exhibition was sponsored by a local family charitable trust and the Hyde Park Savings Bank. As part of the special exhibition, the DHS participated as a drop-off location for the U.S. Marine Corps "Toys for Tots" program. "Toys for the Holidays" continues thru January 8th.

A TREASURE IN THE ATTIC!

We've all heard the story about going up in the attic to fetch the Christmas decorations or some other item, and in the process finding a forgotten treasure from the past.

Well, it happens at the Dedham Historical Society, too. Scouring the Society's collection for the special Christmas toy exhibit, Executive Director Vicky Kruckeberg came across a big box in the attic that clearly had not been touched in years.

Opening the box, Kruckeberg found a three-tiered Christmas carousel, complete with lights and a wind-up mechanism that once drove the miniature horses and people round and round. A card identified the carousel as a "Miniature Merry-Go-Round" made by Emil C. Klotzer of East Dedham about 1910.

"This wonderful piece of folk art was exactly what we needed for the centerpiece of our toy exhibit," she said.

An active member of the Dedham community for many years, she assisted the Society with landscaping and served as a member of the Board of Directors. Mabel Herweg is survived by her husband of 65 years, John Barton Herweg, and her son John W. Herweg. Burial was at Arlington National Cemetery.

PREPARING FOR THE 375TH ANNIVERSARY

In preparation for Dedham's 375th anniversary in 2011, Executive Director Vicky Kruckeberg and Youth Commissioner Thomas Clinton came up with the idea for a Dedham coloring book with local images sketched by Dedham High School students. In November Kruckeberg met with over 50 students to discuss potential historical images. Student art is due to the Office of the Youth Commission in early January for the final selection and preparation for printing.

During the 375th anniversary, each DHS newsletter will feature a story from Dedham's past taken from our archives. In the spirit of the season, we begin with "Description of Our Neighborhood" by Isabella Frances Cobb French in November 1915.

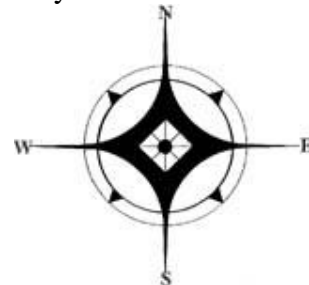

"Skating was then the fashion: some times extra trains were run to accommodate the visitors. The meadows around Eastern Avenue were overflowed and one could skate over them to Wigwam Pond, a beautiful crystal lake. Horseback rides to Blue Hill and picnics on Job's Island and Cow Island were much enjoyed, especially as we were the only persons on the river. Many often went to Powder Rock to enjoy a stroll and see the sunset and the moon rise.

It was impossible to find skates for women in those days and I wanted to learn to skate. So my brother Sam strapped a pair of boy's skates on to his boots. I put them on and we used to skate on a small pond back of the Bullard House. It rose up in the centre and he would help me to the top, give me a push and I had to balance myself as best I could. These skates I used until one of my beaux one day made me a present of a beautiful pair of Dutch skates that curled up and had brass acorns on the sides. "

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR HEADS TO CUBA

Executive Director Vicky Kruckeberg, will be one of 25 museum professionals traveling to Cuba in March on a cultural mission with the American Association of Museums. Escorted by colleagues from that country, delegates will go behind the scenes at the top cultural institutions in Havana, including Museo Nacional de Bellas Artes, Wifredo Lam Center of Contemporary Art, Colonial Art Museum, Museum of the City of Old Havana, El Morro Castle and Finca La Vigia—Hemingway's restored home. Plans also include a visit to the School of the City Historian where discussions will be held with teachers and students about the restoration of paintings, murals and other art objects, followed by a visit to an active restoration project in Old Havana. Kruckeberg plans to share her experiences in a special lecture at the Society in 2011.
